PUTTING PEOPLE FIRST: GORDON LEGAL OPENS IN NEW SOUTH WALES

Respected injury, industrial and employment lawyers are leading the new expansion of Gordon Legal into New South Wales.

Injury law expert, Sheri Carolan and industrial and employment law specialist Aron Neilson have joined the team of unrivalled plaintiff law and personal injury experts, led by Peter Gordon.

Gordon Legal's expansion into NSW is the next big step in their journey to fight for working people, with Sheri and Aron welcome additions to lead the fight in New South Wales.

Sheri is an Accredited Specialist in personal injury law, with expertise in medical negligence, workers compensation, motor vehicle accident and public liability claims.

Sheri is excited to join Gordon Legal in their new NSW office and represent working people, including from Dubbo, where she grew up and remains an active member of the community.

Sheri has won a number of professional awards, including NSW Young Business Executive of the Year in 2017.

"Having grown up regional NSW, I understand first-hand the need for working people in the country to have access to first-rate legal and personal injury services," Ms Carolan said.

"Not everyone lives in a capital city, but everyone deserves the best when it comes to expert legal help."

Aron is a NSW Law Society Accredited Specialist in employment and industrial law and has worked across the financial, property, manufacturing, health, IT, political and not-for-profit sectors. Aron has acted for some of Australia's highest profile identities.

He has also worked for a number of unions, providing advice on all aspects of the law, and has acted in a number of national wide industrial relations matters.

"I'm thrilled to be joining the team at Gordon Legal, a firm that believes in social justice and supporting workers and workplace rights," Mr Neilson said.

Senior Partner, Peter Gordon said the firm will restore faith in the law and put people first.

He is enthusiastic about Gordon Legal's expansion and appointment of Sheri and Aron, who share the firm's ethos and commitment to fight for those who cannot fight for themselves.

"The idea of Gordon Legal is to run a law firm in the traditional way – fighting hard in the interests of working people," Mr Gordon said.

"At Gordon Legal we understand that people often need a lawyer during the most difficult time in their life, and need someone who is going to take their case personally.

"Sheri and Aron will do just that for working people in NSW."
